SAFETY FIRST FOR
THE GAS COMPANYConsumers Will be Urged to Use Proper Precautions
Against Mishaps.

DEATH KNEEL OF RUBBER HOSE

Will Be Sounded If Officials Can Prevail Upon Users of Gas to Abandon This Menace to Both Life and Property—Rules Are Made Public.

In pursuance of the company's wish for proper precautions to be observed by consumers, inspectors of the Fayette County Gas Company will begin early next week a thorough canvass of its consumers urging them to take care to prevent accidents. There is no law whereby the gas company can install safety appliances and all the company can do is to urge the consumers to take action.

According to letter readers and inspectors, including those in use in Connellsville, similar to that in the home of John Nutting, who was burned in the gas explosion yesterday morning at his home on the West Side. These are considered dangerous. In the extreme and at all times an effort has been made to have the consumer use the straight pipe. The canvass to be started next week is to be a general one throughout the company's territory and it is thought will be all that the master needs now all that the gas company can do is regulate the plumbers and gas fitters who install the pipes and ranges. According to a State law no plumber is allowed to connect a pipe to the feeding pipe with a rubber hose. The regular monthly meeting of the gas employees held last night served to awaken a determination to eliminate the rubber hose will and other equally dangerous contrivances.

As the master needs now all that the gas company can do is regulate the plumbers and gas fitters who install the pipes and ranges. According to a State law no plumber is allowed to connect a pipe to the feeding pipe with a rubber hose. The regular monthly meeting of the gas employees held last night served to awaken a determination to eliminate the rubber hose will and other equally dangerous contrivances.

The latest set of rules and regulations as printed on page 4 of The Courier today were adopted last week and are now in force. There are 19 rules in all of which are clearly new. These have been given the employees and will be distributed to the canvass next week. The direct rule treating the Nutting case is No. 14, which reads: "It is not to make any provision for rubber hose connections. They will not be allowed under any circumstances." These rules and regulations cover every possible accident and give methods of prevention in all cases.

The gas company will next week distribute in the rural districts tapped by the lines a commercial calculator. One page of the book is devoted to the names and telephone numbers of officials of the company to be called in time of accident or leakage or any other trouble.

Little Euine.—“Boo Hoo! I had a pretty pink frock and mama cooked it and the pink all came out.”

Mother.—“I didn't know the color would fade or I shouldn't have boiled it along with the other clothes.”

Anty Drudge.—“Anything will fade, my dear, if it's boiled long enough. Boiling weakens the fabric and dissolves the dye. The best way is not to boil your clothes, but to wash them with Fels-Naptha in cool or lukewarm water. Fels-Naptha sets the colors instead of fading them, besides making the clothes wear longer. It also saves you time, work, bother and money.”

There are cheaper laundry soaps than Fels-Naptha but no other so economical.

Sounds odd, doesn't it?

But it's true.

Fels-Naptha is more economical because it saves time, saves work, saves the cost of fuel and makes your clothes wear twice as long.

Fels-Naptha cleans your clothes in cool or lukewarm water in summer or winter without boiling or hot water to weaken their fabric, and without hard rubbing to wear them into holes.

It takes half as long and requires much less work than the old way.

Try it next washday.

See how white, and clean, and sweet Fels-Naptha makes your clothes.

Follow carefully the directions on the red and green wrapper.

FOR many years piano manufacturers and dealers have tried to reduce selling expense of pianos. The old way of paying solicitors, paying musicians, giving away pianos, etc., has been abandoned. Now the question of the best advertised piano, and one in which the purchasers are given the greatest possible value. This is the age of competition. It is the age of advertising. It is the age of the great piano. To make and introduce their product is to spend the advertising money in making special offers to the people rather than employing world-famous demonstrators at fabulous expense or making the piano popular by advertising at a great inflated price for the piano. We know you will appreciate this extraordinary offer.

A SCOTTDALE MAN BUYS FAIR GROUNDS

John W. Ruth Successful Bidder for Youngwood Property.

BAND CONCERT MONDAY NIGHT

Annoyance of Yelling Youngsters Causes Band Men to Consider Closing the Town Entertainments Session to Graduates Tomorrow

Special to The Courier
SCOTTDALE, May 25.—When the Westmoreland County Agricultural Association put up their fair grounds at Youngwood for public auction Saturday afternoon there was a good sized crowd present to bid on the grounds and buildings. John W. Ruth, the plain tall man of Scotchdale, and a director of the association was the successful bidder, buying the grounds for $18,655. The grounds and buildings are in first class condition and the fair will likely be continued in the future on these grounds.

FIND CONCERT
The Leibach recital party brought to the Opera house last evening under the auspices of the Local Civic Club of the T. M. C. A. gave one of the best performances that has ever been rendered in Scottdale. The students of Winfield Lescott and the twin sons of Percival Lescott were all of the highest type and the audience, though rather small, was very appreciative.

SEMINAR TO GRADUATES
The sermon to the members of the graduating class of the Scottdale High School will be preached in the First Baptist church by the pastor, Rev. William G. Russell, on Sunday evening. The class numbers 44 and is the largest ever to be graduated from the Scottdale schools. The graduation exercises are on Wednesday evening.

BAND CONCERT

The thirty-fourth concert by the G. A. I. band will be given in Scottdale park Monday evening, May 27, at 8 o'clock, when the following program will be rendered: March 1, "The Gleaming Plaza"; Lusenkauska, Overture; "Tantauhannen"; Suite; Serenade; Concert Piece; Drift; Chorale, duet, "Two Little Tullin' Bees"; King (Nevers Davis and Hardy); Waltz "Vienna Bonbon"; Strauss Selection; "Bohemian Girl"; Suite; March "Rocked in the Cradle of the Deep Hayes." The next concert following will be Sunday afternoon, June 3, at 4 o'clock.

At the concert given last Monday evening there was a great crowd pleased with the music. There was only one drawback to the affair and that was the presence of a lot of small children who made themselves unpleasantly conspicuous by their yelling. They played tag with each other running through the audience and it was difficult for the band to keep them. I find men say that they will quit the free concert business if the music is not approved. A good home concert with a band as the principal musical player is what the youngsters ought to have.

ALVERTON CHURCH

MANY REMARKABLE RESULTS OBTAINED

GREAT GOOD BEING DONE BY APPLICATION OF MODERN IDEAS.

Intense Interest is Aroused Wherever New Treatment Has Been Offered to the Public.

There are many thousands of debtors in this country and women in this country who will read this from with much interest. Not in many years has a new product excited so much discussion as that now going on over the remarkable success of Indian remedies of pharmacy now available to the public. The new treatment has been offered to the trade as Wade's Indian专利品. Men and women in all walks of life are enthusiastic in their praise of the new treatment. A few of their names are here quoted. "I should like your treatment was brought to my notice," says Rev. R. L. Barnes of 12 N. West street, Indianapolis. "After suffering for years from Nervous Debility, your treatment certainly helped me. In my after-career I have often made this station to show my appreciation and with the hope that others may benefit by it."

Mr. Nat Williams, 16 Toledo Ave., Marion, O., is a lady who received a doubtful medical treatment, and the treatment has done me so much good. In my work I meet a great many afflicted people and you may rest assured I will recommend it to you. I think it is grand.

In view of the enormous number of men and women who complain of nervous debility, nervous indigestion and headache, weak heart, insomnia, (obstruction) the knowledge that a reliable treatment is at hand will be welcome.

MY LADY OF DOUBT

BY RANDALL PARRISH

Author of "Love Under Fire," "My Lady of the North."

Illustration by HENRY DUNNE

Copyright ACFCUING & CO. LTD.

I ground my teeth savagely together, recalling the treachery of the latter, his insults to Claude, his dredging of Eric, his stealing of papers, hoping thus to ruin his own Colonel, his alliance with Fagin, his selling of British secrets. Here was a villain through and through and I hoped he had already paid the penalty. If not, I vowed the man should never escape. But the thought of the missing girl came back, driving all else from my mind. She was in none of those rooms we searched, nor did we discover the slightest evidence of her having been there. As I stood in the door of the deserted music room staring helplessly about, a sudden possibility occurred to me. Ay! that must be the truth, the full explanation of her vanishing. She had come flying up the stairs, frightened, desperate—so far as she knew, alone against Fagin's unscrupulous band. She had not returned to her father or escaped by way of the hall. Where then could she have gone? The secret staircase, down which she had hurried me, and which was known only to herself, Eric and Peter. I gripped Farrell's arm eagerly. "You know this house well—did you ever hear of secret passages in it?" "I have heard it whispered in gossip," he answered, "that such were here in the old Indian days. Why?" "Because it is true. The girl hid me here from Grant. And that is where we will find her. The opening is there by the false chimney, but I have no conception of how it works; she made me turn my back while she operated the mechanism."

He stooped down, and began searching along the fireplace, and I joined him. Together our hands felt over every inch of surface. There was no response, not even a crack to guide us. At last he glanced aside, and our eyes met.

"Who knew of this beside Claire?" he asked.

"Eric and the servant Swanson. She told me she and her brother discovered it by accident through reading an old memorandum."

"And the colonel is not aware of its existence?"

"I understand not. Do you know if the boy lives?"

He left the room, and I heard his voice calling down the stairs, but did not distinguish the words of reply. I was still on my knees when he returned.

He is alive but unconscious. Lawrence. Do you consider it impossible for her to escape from here alone, providing she took refuge in this place?"

"I could find no opening, except underground and that is blocked now." I shuddered at the thought. Besides, she must be in utter darkness, for I used all the candles."

Then we must get axes, and cut our way in. Wait here, and I will bring up some of the men."

I straightened up as we left the room, and my eyes looked into a small mirror above the open grate. Good Heaven! Could that be my reflection! Bunched up my face streaked with blood and dirt my coat rags, my shirt ripped to the waist. I scarcely looked human. In sudden burst of anger I reached out and gripped the mirror, jerking it savagely. Then I sprang back. Slowly, with a faint click of the mechanism, the mantel piece was swinging open.

CHAPTER XXXV.

A Confession of Love.

I could scarcely believe my eyes as the mantel swung slowly outward, revealing the black hole beyond. I glanced about helplessly, and sprang to the door to call back Farrell. He was not in the upper hall, but my eyes swept its length I remembered a half-burned candle in the chamber opposite. By the time I returned with it lit, the mantel had turned on its pivot, leaving the way clear. The narrow stair was vacant, stretching down into the black depths. I listened, my heart thudding but no sound came from below. Could she be there? Was there any other secret passage by which she could have disappeared? I shuddered at memory of what it meant to be shut up in that dismal hole without the companionship of light. Fearful of some accident I paused long enough to wedge a heavy piece of furniture in the opening, and then, shading the bit of candle, began groping my way down. I had reached the lower floor before the flickering yellow rays revealed any evidence of her presence. Then I saw a girl lying head down upon the table. My hand touched her arm before she moved, and then she faced me wild-eyed, the pistol gleaming in the candlelight.

"Claire! Claire!" I exclaimed, started at her sudden movement. Surely you know me!" For the instant she did not, her eyes full of terror.

"No, no," she cried hysterically. "It cannot be! It is a dream! You—you tell me who you are!"

I caught her hand, the pistol falling to the floor and placed the candlestick upon the table.

"It is no dream, dear. I am Alceo Lawrence and I have come for you."

Queen's Rangers, even in the disguise of a dragon, I have never questioned the depth of your womanhood. Once I guessed you a British spy, yet ceased not to love you. Am I to have my reward? You know little of me, as you say, but as an officer and a gentleman.

Rockwood.

ROCKWOOD, Pa., May 21—Merchant J. C. McSpadden yesterday closed a deal with Messrs. J. W. Strong and A. J. Miller, proprietors of the Anchor Grocery Co., in which time they transferred their stock and good will to John McSpadden, who took charge of the business at 10:30 P.M. The latter will within the next two days move his stock goods from the Miller property on the corner of Main and Market sts. to the Anchor storeroom in the Ridgway Building where he will conduct his mammoth business until the new Miller Building is completed.

Mrs. W. M. Day and Miss Julia Gardner of Orefield are guests this week of the latter's sister, Mrs. M. R. Bremmer of Johnstown, where they will attend the Ringling Bros. Circus.

Mrs. R. B. Walker's departure yesterday for Baltimore, Md., where she will be the guest of her friend, Miss Edith Dill, who has just completed her first year in the Baltimore Pharmaceutical College. Miss Walker will visit other friends in the south before returning home.

Frank Maxwell, the well known Western Maryland Inspector of cement works, who was a resident of Rockwood for two years during the construction of the new railroad, has been appointed to the important position of State Highway Inspector with headquarters at Osterville.

Church announcements for next Sunday: Latimer preaching at 10:30 A.M. and at 10:30 P.M. Reformed preaching at 7:30 P.M. Dr. Brethren preaching at 7:30 P.M. All other services as usual.

It was only to compel you to leave me.

And now it is an invitation to remain.

Her eyes were uplifted to mine. Slowly I drew her toward me, her arms were upon my shoulders, and our lips met.

"I love you," she said slowly. "Yes, dear, I love you."

Above us, his head thrust through the opening, Farrell called:

"Have you found her, major? Shall I come down?"

"It's not necessary."

"The colonel is half crazy, and the boy is getting back his reason."

We went up together, I bearing the candle in our hand, and helping her along the circular stairs with the other. In the upper hall I glanced below, but the body of the dead had been removed. Farrell stood bare-headed, a great figure in his short legs.

"This has been a fine night's work," he said steadily, the last of Fagin's name.

"Dead?"

Ay and Grant with him—begging your pardon, mistress.

Her eyes glanced from his face into mine and my hand clasp tightened. It was thus we went in together, and stood opposite the colonel's bed.

Pennsylvania's public toll of 100,000 calls of relief that quoted and yet more to come of it.

John B. Skinner, 110 W. Apple

St. Connellsville, Pa., says:

"About 100,000 calls of relief have been made since the opening of the new telephone system in the city. The telephone system has been in operation for two months past, prices as a whole have made no in or out at this time, but there is a slight increase in the cost of living better the position of labor. As yet there is no real idea of such happenings, but it is to be expected that the telephone system will continue to increase in value and in value, and the telephone company's stock price will be affected by this increase."

COKERS LOSE IN NINTH INNING

Play Good Game Against Salem but Jinx is Still on the Job.

ANOTHER LINEUP PRESENTED

New Combination Works Trifle Better But There is Still Room for Much Improvement—Fayette Field Diamond in Poor Shape for Fielders.

Connellsville probably came nearer winning a ball game on the home lot yesterday than at any other time this week. Somebody took the jinx by the hair and kept it out of the field for eight innings, but the hoodoo managed to crawl through a knot hole and caused the ninth inning destruction of the Cokers. The score was 6 to 6.

Connellsville played good ball all week but really didn't have chance to win. While the Quakers were slammimg the pill to all parts of the lot for a total of 15 hits, Howser's teammates were piling up all sorts of errors.

The latest combination looked perhaps better than any previous one. Danny Phelan was brought in to short and Charlie Westenberg, a Lohengrin recruit, held down right. Westenberg didn't have much to do in the field. His two hits were scratchy.

The Fayette Field diamond is perhaps the worst in the league and many fuke bounces gave hits to the batters. The Cokers broke even in the fielding luck. Phelan did not show any disadvantage from being shifted around. He went after everything that came his way in short and got away with some. The bad ground was responsible for his one error. He went after one that was labeled for a hit and succeeded in stopping it, although the play threw him out of position to throw to first.

Connellsville started off like a winner. After Salem had scored once, the Cokers batted out three runs on two hits and four bases on balls. Schmidt hit wild with the first finding out settled down and pitched one ball after that.

Connellsville took the lead in the seventh and eighth when they secured two runs. Salem came to bat in the ninth and it looked as if Connellsville had at last won a game. F. Schmidt, the pitcher, was at the bat and didn't look particularly formidable. He selected the first ball pitched and sent it to middle field. Danny Hart misjudged the ball, ran forward, turned and ran toward the fence. His outstretched hands clasped the ball but dropped it. A quick return held the pitcher on first. Mack sacrificed, Warner, with three and two, poked one to left field scoring Schmidt. Lead three to home too late and Warner went to second. Foster pegged to second to catch the runner and Ogle missed the ball and recovering, threw wild to third, Wagner scoring the winning run. The score:

MEN'S AND YOUNG MEN'S CLOTHING FOR SUMMER

Clothing that gives identity to the wearer; styled and tailored with authority. Wright-Metzler service in men's ready-to-wear clothing is based on the idea that every man who wears a Wright-Metzler suit shall be distinctly well-dressed. Our tailors make alterations, if necessary.

Straws that stick on in a Breeze

Impossible? No, because the inside leather band is so arranged—or put in—that there's even pressure—without binding—all around. It takes a pretty stiff breeze to pry loose a hat so equipped. Most of our straws are imported. They bear the names of:

Pinay and Leduc, Paris, France.
Barford and Sons, Luton, Eng.
Liaud Freres, Paris, France.
R. Cinelli & Figli, Firenze, Italy.

There is a decided craze for imported straws—they are distinctive, light-weight, weather proof finished and hand made.

The "Albans," a French hat of woven braid. Tach style, reinforced brim, very light weight. Beautifully white and entirely different from any shown before. The braid resembles a Panama and is woven in much the same way. Price $1.00.

Other hats—China splits, Jap Sennits—many shapes, $1.00 to $4.00. Panama hats, $3.50, $5.00, $7.50, $10.00.

(Without the Vest $14 and $18.50)

We could pay less for Woolens—we could buy cotton linings and inferior canvas and hair cloth. By using cheaper materials, we could make larger profits—

BUT WE DON'T.

When you come to our store we could raise the price and still give you an elegant value even if you should pay twice our never-changing prices of $15 and $20. "No More No Less" and we could hand our salesmen a 10 per cent advance for every garment sold above the advertised price—

BUT WE DON'T.

New Mt. Clothes Buyer, don't you consider commercial standing and clean business dealing important to you? Wouldn't you rather patronize one-place, one-quality tailors of experience, ability and truthfulness than be drawn into some "Hole-in-the-Wall" shop by high-sounding promises of guaranteed garments 'for a song' then be "hold up" and made to pay twice the advertised price? Question: What is the difference between such under hand extortion and plain robbery?

Let others head straight to: final suits if they choose, quality shall not be sacrificed here, nor will our reputation for honorable dealing be sullied one way or another.

Organization will continue to tailor high-class made, made-to-measure clothes with style and dash, worth $80 and $10 for one half.

Absolutely guarantee The Martel Blow-Out Protector for the term of one year.

To Automobile Owners

Have you ever had a blowout and ruined your tire before you were able to get it repaired?

Have you ever had a boot applied in such a manner as to absolutely prevent slipping and fracture from spreading?

Have you ever had a protector that could be adjusted in one minute?

Have you ever had any device that would hold a blow-out for any length of time?
